British Importation of Russian Lumber Blow to Coast Logging Industry

GOVERNMENT IS SILENT AS ORDERS GIVEN

Question of Trade Likely to Form Discussion on Conference

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, March 17.—The question of Canadian lumber trade with Russia will not surely give very serious consideration at the approaching Imperial Economic Conference. In the meantime government has no desire to comment on trade developments such as London cables have announced.

The purchase of 2,100,000 cubic metres of Russian lumber or approximately $22,400,000 in board feet by the British Government will cost little more than Russia sold the United Kingdom last year.

A report for official guidance has been issued to one of the most prominent of Canadian lumber companies, which says that the Kingdom imports about 8,000,000 feet board measure of lumber from Canada.

CANADA SUPPLY SMALL

Last year Canada supplied about five per cent of the United States' total purchases of European lumber.

The report says that the Canadian export was that Canada made many direct purchases of Russian lumber which would more than offset the ten-per-cent tariff preference given to Canada by the United Kingdom.

For example, the freight rates from the United States to Canada are around $2.50 Canadian funds, while to the United Kingdom are $2.75 and Western Canada $1 per 1,000 feet.

The Canadian lumber is carried in small vessels which can land in any port on the British Isles.

Under the present system, however, it often has to be transhipped before it reaches its final destination.

RUSSIA PRICE LOW

The report says that Russia is undertaking to deliver the lumber to British ports at a price which includes deducting commissions of about $18 per 1,000 feet, leaving a margin for an buyer against his cost.

There is the fact that Canadian lumbermen may have to pay a tariff of about $1.75 and the British Columbian for about $1.60, which the report says.

If it is expected or considered that Canada will be the recipient of the new prices, the report says, "then the market will be open."

It is expected or considered that Canada will be the recipient of the new prices, the report says.

It is the opinion of the report that Canada's lumbermen will be compelled to compete in some other manner than as a quota.

Preferential Tariff

Is Of No Value, Claim.

Canadian Press

VANCOUVER, March 17.—An expert on Russian imports into Great Britain is the only measure that will be of real value to Canadian lumbermen, according to H. Macmillan, Vancouver lumberman, reporter, recently returned from a business tour of northern Europe.

Action of Britain in granting concessions to foreign lumber importers from non-British countries will put a duty of ten per cent, or more, on Canadian products under present conditions, Mr. Macmillan said.

"He said, "We will hold the British Government responsible for cutting prices to meet laid-down costs of production in other countries. Even with a low Canadian dollar, we can't compete with them, with their present production methods and their ability to compete with Russia. Now world trade is at a standstill, and there is no room for British imports placing substantial pressure on us."

Mr. Macmillan believes that Canada will be able to more than hold its own in the market if it can get back to Britain those who are not in direct competition with the Russian products.

MORE ABOUT

TURNER VALLEY

By 50,000 barrels a month, the Valley was to be the largest producer of Alberta's gasoline requirements.

Recalled after giving testimony on Wednesday before the Senate committee on the petroleum and natural gas division of the lands and mineral department, Mr. Macmillan said he had been encouraging the movement of Russian oil to Canada of British origin.

He moved in his capacity of Minister of External Affairs, and in his movement, he in his capacity of Minister of Immigration, to see that the oil was brought to Canada.

The question was raised by Dr. J. P. Howes (Liberal, St. Catharines), who repeated a question put down on the floor of the Senate on March 14, in respect to the coming of 500 men from Great Britain to work in Canada.

Mr. Gordon said that he had been warning the fact that so far as encouraging the movement of oil to Canada, the oil had been brought to Canada.

Mr. Gordon said that he had been warning the fact that so far as encouraging the movement of oil to Canada, the oil had been brought to Canada.

Some of the provisions had informed him, any day now, that the oil would be shipped to Canada.

He said, "I have had the approval of the people of Canada."

For many years, however, different oil companies had been encouraging the movement of oil to Canada.

Mr. Macmillan said he had been encouraging the movement of oil to Canada.

He claimed this could not be a definite statement, but he did say, "Judging from his experience in a number of ways he believed the oil would be shipped to Canada."

Mr. Howes said, "I am not sure that he did not think the oil would be shipped to Canada."

He gave it as his opinion that at the present time the oil would be shipped to Canada.

He said, "I am not sure that the oil would be shipped to Canada."

Acknowledged whether the present waging of war in Spain had had any effect on the oil companies, and the effect of a conserving policy was based on similar policies.

The hearing is continuing.

LIFE STORY OF ERIN'S PATRIOT

By MILTON BRONNER

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

DUBLIN, March 17.—This St. Patrick's Day finds a modern hero in Ireland whose fans bid fair to go down in history with that of Erin's patron saint.

He is Eamonn de Valera, modern Ireland's outstanding figure, who has just climaxed 16 years of fighting the British with both ballots and bullets, to become a victor in the polls which makes him the new president of the Irish Free State.

There is, probably, more to come—political or otherwise. To de Valera, his election as president of the British-controlled Irish Free State is but another step toward the independence of his state: a free and independent Republic of Ireland.

He says so. Sure! Sinn Fein member he is.

In personal appearance, he makes no commanding figure such as one does in politics, but he is lean and awkward, his lantern-jawed face showing a quiet yet yet forty years old, but he is the human symbol today of Ireland's fight to break the bonds of British rule.

His life has had all the drama and suspense of a good novel. He has fought and sweated behind high walls of British rule, and has been captured by the British and sentenced to prison.

He might have walked right out of the pages of one of Rafael Sabatini's gripping novels, but he did not.

The story of the Canadian export was that Canada had many difficulties in getting the ten-per-cent tariff preference given to Canada.

For example, the freight rates from the United States to Canada were $2.50 Canadian funds, while to the United Kingdom were $2.75 and Western Canada $1 per 1,000 feet.

The Canadian lumber is carried in small vessels which can land in any port on the British Isles.

Under the present system, however, it often has to be transhipped before it reaches its final destination.

Singularly enough, the new president of the Irish Free State was born in New York City, where he was said to have been born on the site of the present White House.

The Canadian lumbermen are to be congratulated, however, for the report says that Canada's lumbermen will be able to more than hold their own in the market.

It is the opinion of the report that Canada's lumbermen will be compelled to compete in some other manner than as a quota.

HUNTED AS OUTLAW

He has been hunted in the woods of Ireland as an outlaw, and has been driven from his home in Dublin.

He has escaped from an English gaol, and has been a fugitive in a grand opera plot, in which a clinging gardener sang directions to him in Glastonbury, and he has maintained the wardens with their charms and wit.

He might have walked right out of the pages of one of Rafael Sabatini's gripping novels, but he did not.

His precast start as a young college student in Boston was higher mathematics of the most advanced kind—and when he was captured passion followed him.

RETURNS TO IRELAND

DOUBLE THE PRICE — FOR WHAT?

The owner of a radio receiving set will have to pay a dollar more for his next year's license. That will be unwelcome news to him, but it may, and probably will, be to his advantage in the long run.

The privilege of listening in is now so cheap that the listener can hardly complain about what he has to listen to. If advertising blab comes over in quantities to obscure the scraps of entertainment sandwiched in between spots, he is bound to mind it. And the radio stations have to depend upon advertising revenue to keep the thing going. About all he can do in the circumstances is dial another station, and listen to the glorification of some other brand of blab.

Now that the price of his license is to be doubled, the listener will feel that he has a vested interest in the radio business and a legitimate right to "kick" if he does not get reasonable value for his money.

THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE

The Liberal leader in the legislature proposes that, instead of raising the pockets of the taxpayers who they are empolyed to tax, in the provincial finances for the coming year should be capitalized. That is to say, that the courageous policy which the Government adopted a year ago should be continued, deficits accepted as inevitable while the depression continues, and the loss spread over a period of years.

The conservative leader does not agree that deficits should be capitalized, but thinks the time to make provision for economic depression is when business is at its best. An American will win. The telephone company operating in Illinois has instituted proceedings against bootleggers.

A Marconi wireless telegraph company has been formed in the United States.

According to the census return Alberta has 186,000 head of live stock.

Edmonton is at the head of navigation on the North Saskatchewan River, and town of 100,000 inhabitants and has one of the most beautiful situations in the world. It is incorporated. Its first council having been elected in January, 1882; it is lit by electric light; it is the northern terminus of the C. & G. R. R.; it is the head of navigation on the river court; it is the distributing centre for the vast region extending from Red Deer to the Arctic ocean.

Edmonton exists before Brandon, Regina and Calgary and is the first place where the prairie air is clean after an effort to crush it and will yet be the leading city west of Winnipeg in the Territories.

There are at present in several general stores three hardware stores, two dry goods stores, two drug stores, two grocery stores, one meat market, one book and jewelry store, one furniture store, three butcher shops, one pack packing establishment, telephone office, telephone office, one saw mill, one grain elevator.

The town council has a communication from Ignatius Covic in reference to the McBride chemical fire engine and a second steam fire engine. The cost of the chemical would be about $675, with a capacity of 80 gallons. The steam fire engine would cost about $750.

HELP REFUSED IN COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX

Dominion to Remain Aloof in Dealing With Revenue

Efforts on the part of the provincial governments to persuade the Dominion to shoulder the income tax load and representations to have the Dominion use its organization in collecting the tax failed. The Dominion had power, according to Hon. G. Reid, provincial treasurer and minister of lands and mines in the government, to collect the tax in question on several reading of the new income tax act.

The ministerial statement was made after several opposition speakers had suggested that as the first cost of collecting the tax was $60,000 that it would save at least a large portion of the tax. Mr. Reid said he had been asked to do this and then made a refund to the province.

From the refusal to entertain either proposal, it was concluded that the Dominion would not be induced to provide to invade the income tax bill by the provinces.

DEFENSE TAX

Deferring the tax, the minister said, it was the opinion of leading economists that it was the fairest tax that could be levied.

Finally, he submitted, there should be no tax on the individual, but upon the government for hoping a war which would improve the economy even though it might mean sacrifice.

In his report of the action of legislating the tax, the minister said that the government was charged with the duty of maintaining the empire, and could even though it might mean sacrifice, do this.

Dealing with the suggestion to have the government commission act as a tax collector, Mr. Reid said that such services had been performed during the war, but that the tax had been made use of in grappling with financial difficulties.

As the tax was to be collected, it had been mentioned several times in the course of the debate that the provinces took advantage of the occasion to defer their own bills and Dr. H. M. Ford, member for Alberta, said that for the value of services in the past.

WAS SURPRISED

Mr. G. N. C. Conservatism Red Deer, was surprised and grieved that more information had not been given on the effect of the tax on the effects of the tax on individuals, industry, business and other matters.

This was probably the last chance to demonstrate taxation measure to be dealt with in the session.

It was a government measure and so the government was leadership looks like.

On the basis of daily wage, with 26 working days in the month, the tax to a single man would be 44 cents a day and a married man earning $4.46.

WAS UNFAIR

Mr. G. N. C. Conservatism was unfair that a tax of $100 on a man's 1931 income to 1932 should be levied on him.

On the other hand, an important measure he felt that there should be more information on the tax.

He believed various party leaders in the house were anxious to see burden of taxation fairly distributed as possible.

Mr. Payne thought the government was not doing its duty in that it would not collect the income tax.

Later, it cost the Dominion, with all its machinery, $100,000 to collect its tax in Alberta, and the cost was not starting, was estimating only $60,000.

WOULD REFUND

He charged it was unfair to refund the amount of money paid by Alberta and Calgary and only give other municipalities no share whatever. The income tax was not fair, he said, and what was not desirable. He also knew that there was an income tax levied on him.

Mr. Payne thought the government was not doing its duty in that it would not collect the income tax.

Later, it cost the Dominion, with all its machinery, $100,000 to collect its tax in Alberta, and the cost was not starting, was estimating only $60,000.

NOT NEEDED

Such a tax was not at present needed. He would not fully dispose of the matter, however, until he got the leaks in the ship of state. Greater tax on natural resources was advocated.

He charged that the base tax of $3 was sufficient to meet the needs of the country.

He agreed that the government was in a position to collect the tax.

The new tax would hit the salaried man, who was taxed to the limit, and the farmer, who was taxed to the limit on last year's incomes, yet many more taxes were imposed than that year.

The schedule was altogether too low. It did not recognize the fact that it is on the same scale as the one now in operation.

He agreed that it was desirable that the Dominion should levy and collect the tax and that it should amount to the province. If an arrangement could not be made between the Dominion for the potting of the province, some kind of scheme could be worked out on the part of the province.

The last analysis he gave was not bad, but the farmer was going to pay the tax.

He agreed with critics that the Schedule was too low.

IRWIN OPPOSED

John Irwin, Conservative, Calgary, was in full tilt again against the bill, and from time to time he brought up the point from the standpoint of what should be done.

He opposed starting taxing on the 1931 incomes, stating that as it was a new measure, it should not be applied to the 1932 incomes.

Mr. Irwin said the incomes were glad to pay the income tax, but did not want to pay two. People were more ready to take the tax than to pay it.

He forecast withdrawal of financial support from the national institutions by public-spirited citizens if the income tax bill passed.

SWEEPSTAKES ADVOCATED AS MONEY MAKER

Would Make Income Tax Unnecessary Says Montgomery

Opponents under government supervision of the income tax and postal revenues found champion in the legislature on Wednesday during the debate on the new income tax bill. The Income Tax Act. The suggestion first came from Mr. J. W. Montgomery, member of the Liberal Legislative Assembly, who was supported by Miles C. Ladd, member of the Liberal party.

If authorization could be obtained from the Dominion to hold sweepstakes, he said, the money raised could be used to meet the cost of the new income tax.

He said that the idea of holding a lottery was not new to him.

Mr. Speaker G. N. Johnston to the fact that he had wondered somewhat about the idea, but had not given any consideration to it.

After making his suggestion, Mr. Montgomery was called to the chair by Mr. Speaker G. N. Johnston to the fact that he had wondered somewhat about the idea, but had not given any consideration to it.

He dealt with the citizen's suggestion that the lottery should not be carried by them and he stated further that he had no objection to it.

The new tax would hit the salaried man, who was taxed to the limit, and the farmer, who was taxed to the limit on last year's incomes, yet many more taxes were imposed than that year.
